Great Crowds Cheer As President and Mrs. Harding Appear.

(By Associated Press)

Washington, March 4.—Warren G. Harding of Ohio and Calvin Coolidge, of Massachusetts were inaugurated today President and Vice-President of the United States. Mr. Harding took the oath at 1:18 p. m. and Mr. Coolidge at 12:21 p. m.

KISSES BIBLE

Pressing his lips to an historic Bible used at the inauguration of George Washington, the new President took the oath administered by Chief Justice White. He had chosen a verse saying:

"What doeth the Lord require of thee but to do justly and to have mercy and to walk humbly with thy God."

President Wilson, yielding to the last minute entreaty of his family and physician, took no part in the inaugural ceremonies other than to accompany the incoming President from the White House to the Capitol where he signed some bills and then went with Mrs. Wilson to the new home which will be theirs in the residential section of the city.

Immediately after the administration of the oath, Mr. Harding turned to the vast crowd which stretched across the plaza and began the delivery of his inaugural address.

Sound amplifiers carried his voice to the outskirts of the big assembly. A chill wind feebly warmed by a bright sun swept the broad space which appeared strangely in contrast with other years when it had been illuminated by the brilliant uniforms of West Point Cadets, and Midshipmen from Annapolis.

WANTS WORLD PEACE

Pledging his faith anew to American institutions, President Harding reiterated a plea for a return to "normalcy for industrial peace," for friendship with the world, and spoke again a promise to work for an association of nations to bring about peace and "approximate disarmament." But he coupled his renewed declaration with a fresh pronouncement against "entangling alliances."

Mr. Harding declared "this is not selfishness; it is sanctity. It is not aloofness; it is security. It is not suspicion of others; it is patriotic adherence to the things which made us what we are."

Immediately at the conclusion of the inaugural address the small party reformed and took motor cars back to the White House, escorted by the cavalry troop which had brought it to the Capitol.

COOLIDGE TAKES OATH

The joint congressional inaugural committee headed by Senator Knox arrived at the Senate Chamber with the Vice-President-elect at 12:15 and was warmly applauded by the entire assembly.

At a signal from Mr. Marshal, Mr. Coolidge took the oath with upraised arm and a distinct "I do" at the close. This was at 12:21 p. m. When the applause had died away Mr. Marshall began delivery of his valedictory. When Mr. Marshall had finished Mr. Coolidge began speaking.

FIRE SWEEPING SMALL VILLAGE

HAVE LONG WAIT

Hours before the moment set for the inauguration, the Capitol plaza was well filled with a crowd, most of whose numbers faced the prospect of standing nearly half a day to see the ceremonies.

Forming a complete rim about the Capitol from two a marine guard, the ranked men standing shoulder to shoulder at parade rest and effectually barring the general public from reserved sections set apart for congressional and other dignitaries.

GO TO WHITE HOUSE

President-elect Harding and Mrs. Harding and the Vice-President-elect and Mrs. Coolidge left their hotel for the White House at 10:20 a. m. They were accompanied by members of the Congressional Inaugural Committee, and riding in columns on either side of the automobile were four troops of cavalry from Fort Myer with drawn sabers. The President-elect and Vice-President-elect were lustily cheered by the crowds.

PRESIDENT HARDING'S INAUGURAL ADDRESS

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, MARCH 4.—President Harding in his inaugural address said:

"My countrymen, when one surveys the world about him after the great storm, noting the marks of destruction and yet rejoicing in the ruggedness of the things which withstood it, if he is an American he breathes the clarified atmosphere with a strange mingling of regret and new hope. We have seen world passion spend its fury, but we contemplate our republic unshaken and hold our civilization secure. Liberty—liberty within the law—and civilization are inseparable and though both were threatened we find them now secure, and there comes to Americans the profound assurance that our representative government is the highest expression and surest guaranty of both.

"Standing in this presence, mindful of the solemnity of this occasion, feeling the emotions which no one may know until he senses the great weight of responsibility for himself, I must utter my belief in the divine inspiration of the founding fathers. Surely there must have been God's intent in the making of this new world republic. Ours is an organic law which had but one ambiguity, and we saw that effaced in a baptism of sacrifice and blood, with union maintained, the nation supreme and its concord inspiring. We have seen the

That it is prudent, even necessary, to practice economy is the one great lesson that has been brought home to us all. Thrift has become a National habit. But how, it may be argued, can one be sure that each dollar goes just as far as possible. By paying always the lowest price?

By disregarding quality?

By ignoring value? Hardly that!

Price alone does not spell ECONOMY. It is what you GET for what you pay. That's what chiefly concerns you, isn't it? Then apply this line of reasoning to your buying of

Greeting and Farewell

No president ever inaugurated at Washington presented, as his credentials, so overwhelming a majority of votes as did President Harding and we sincerely believe that no president ever assumed that great office supported by more genuine good wishes for success in the gigantic tasks which he assumes.

Only the most hopeless of bitter partisans desire anything but complete success to distinguish the incoming administration.

The new president is certain, in his honest endeavors, in behalf of this nation and this people, as their servant, during the next four years, to incur the ill will and the open hostility of the selfish and noisy few. He must endure too, unfortunately, the attacks of narrow partisan opponents and bigoted factionalists just as his predecessors have.

President Harding assumes the powers and the burdens entrusted to him by the voters under the most favorable conditions but he has had too much experience in the public service not to realize that many of his present supporters and political friends will become his most uncompromising enemies and most captious critics before the Federal patronage is distributed or the executive and legislative program definitely outlined.

The new president assumes his office while the great wave of his popularity is at its crest. The storms of opposition will soon gather and break. If he is a good pilot he will keep his attention always upon the compass of the rights of the people and, with his hands firmly grasping the control of the ship of state, heedless of the storms which beat about him, the accomplishments in laws enacted and laws executed, which make for the progress of this nation, this people and humanity throughout the world, commercially, intellectually and morally, will be his passport to the hall of fame.

The seas are calm now. The ship of state has been riding idly at anchor for months but the new pilot must put out to sea. He must brave the dangers of unknown and untraveled paths. He must be both brave and cautious, he must be fearless when duty calls and he must be cautious of the breakers on the unknown coasts. There will be dissension and discord but the American citizen who man the ship will prove loyal supporters in every honest and patriotic endeavor.

With the passing of President Wilson from the public service, after having for eight memorable years, faced responsibilities and carried burdens graver and greater than any other chief executive in our history, it seems safe to predict that the feeling of hostility, so conspicuous during the last year, has run its course and that from this time on the American people will think less of the human frailties of Woodrow Wilson and more of the achievements of that great statesman who guided the nation through the torment and horror of a world war and proved, again and again, typifying the American ideals, the inspiration and the hope of humanity.

The American people, in the enthusiastic welcome accorded the new president will not fail in their respectful farewell to his predecessor who returns to the quiet of private life, which he has justly earned.

History will write the name of Woodrow Wilson among our great presidents. Passing time will enable an appreciative people to forget those restrictions and annoyances, necessities of a troublous time, and required in order to the big successes.

The hope of all patriotic and unselfish Americans is that the new administration may go forward and attain the same great and conspicuous successes, in dealing with the tremendous problems of peace confronting us on every side, as marked the administration of Woodrow Wilson in dealing with the great problems of war.

In the work of solving these present problems the new administration will be compelled to impose restrictions on the ambitions of the selfish which may bring it into disfavor but the great question is one of duty to the people. With that duty discharged unflinchingly the complaints of the few matter but little.

It is the real service and not the clamorous applause that endures. It is the sure sense of failure that hurts and not the complaints of those who, because of sorrows, losses or disappointments inevitable in times of great distress, lose for the time the broader vision.

H. M. Daugherty

So many compliments have been spoken and written of our fellow citizen H. M. Daugherty, during the few months last passed, throughout the country and especially here in his home city and county, that we have determined not to attempt to rival others in congratulating the new Attorney General of the United States.

Rather than attempting to add to the compliments already showered upon Mr. Daugherty because of the conspicuous successes which have been his and the honors which have come to him we have concluded to compliment the people of Washington C. H. and Fayette County because of the honor which Mr. Daugherty's selection as a member of President Harding's cabinet brings to us all—to stand for the time being in the light which Mr. Daugherty's appointment places us.

In passing, however, it is well to note that Mr. Daugherty possesses, in addition to his ability as a lawyer, remarkable business ability and experience in big affairs. He possesses not only the technical knowledge of the law but has, in combination with that, the knowledge which comes of years of experience in the business world—a combination, unfortunately, not often possessed by members of the legal profession from the ranks of which, of course, the attorney general must be chosen.

Mr. Daugherty brings to the position for which he has been chosen, the ability to recognize and deal, in a practical way, with technical subjects in a manner which should, and doubtless will, result in gain to the government.

But most important of all, to the old home folks of Mr. Daugherty is that we have all been introduced to the world by his appointment.

In lieu, therefore, of attempting to increase the number of eulogistic comments showered on Mr. Daugherty we, home folks, here are going to keep all the honor we gain, for ourselves. Mr. Daugherty doesn't need any more praise than he has already received and we know him well enough to feel certain that he will be pleased to have us all appropriate to ourselves all the reflected glory that comes to us by reason of the high honor conferred upon him.

POETRY FOR TODAY

SONG AND THE TOIL

To get one's heart in the song of the day,
 To get one's heart in the toil by the way;
 The making of sunshine when clouds hang above
 And the secret of all is in learning to love.

Song and the toil, and a hope every minute
 For the joy of the task and the service that's in it;
 These are the simple things, making life sweet
 Where the furnaces glow and the hammers beat.

All that is splendid in life and worth while
 Is the song in the heart as we go with a smile;
 Strength for the arm through the trust that we cling to
 And love for the friends that we faithfully cling to.

Song and the toil—and these are the test;
 For with them we climb to the highest and best;
 Song and the toil, and the heart in it all,
 With love for our shield and our backs to the wall.

BROOK-BROWNIE, OR HOW THE SONG SPARROW GOT HIS STREAKS

(Copyright, 1921, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

His mother was the Brook and his sisters were the Reeds.
 They, every one, applauded when he sang about his deed.
 His vest was white, his mantle brown, as clear as they could be.
 And his songs were fairly bubbling o'er with melody and glee.
 But an envious Neighbor splashed with mud our Brownie's coat and vest.
 And then a final handful threw that stuck upon his breast.
 The Brook-bird's mother did her best to wash the stains away;
 But there they stuck, and, as it seems, are very like to stay.
 And so he wears the splashes and the mud blotch, as you see;
 But his songs are bubbling over still with melody and glee.

RANDOM NOTES

SOCIAL : PERSONAL MENTION : CLUBS

At the Y. W. C. A. rooms Thursday evening a group of business women of the town gathered for a supper and a meeting following, the purpose of which was to complete the organization of a Business Women's Club.

Thirty women attended and enjoyed a delicious supper prepared and served by Misses Helen Conner and Frances Willis, assisted by Miss Charlotte Townsend, Y. W. C. A. Secretary.

At a previous meeting a committee had been appointed to draw up a constitution and by-laws. These were read discussed and adopted.

Miss Laura Jones, of Cincinnati, Field Secretary of this district, was present and assisted in the formation of the organization.

An election of officers resulted as follows: Miss Ruth Culberson, President; Miss Helen Conner, Vice President; Miss Mary Kerr Secretary; Miss Anna Hempstead, Treasurer.

It was voted to hold a meeting once a month on the last Wednesday a six o'clock supper being served as a forerunner of the business before the club.

The organization is established to promote the welfare and bring new interests into the lives of business women. The new club already has a membership of forty.

Miss Florence Olinger hospitably entertained the Mt. Olive Aid Society, Thursday afternoon, with ten members and eight visitors welcome. The society was specially gratified to have as a guest Mrs. Dice, of the Jasper neighborhood, who at the rare old age of ninety-one years braved the raw March atmosphere.

Selections were read by Mrs. Christie Coil and Miss Olinger. Mrs. Emily Bush, of Leesburg Avenue, will entertain the next meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Stafford entertained with a handsome dinner, Thursday noon in honor of Mrs. H. D. Johnson's birthday.

The invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Earl M. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. John Weade, children, Ruth and Frank.

The American Legion Assembly dances on Thursday evenings are proving very popular, and the one of this week was attended by one hundred and ten couples.

Harvey's Orchestra was up to its usual standard and each selection was enthusiastically encored.

Mrs. Pearson Bowers of New Martinsburg, Mrs. Jesse Taylor of Leesburg daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William Patton of Leesburg avenue, and Mr. Patton's sisters Mrs. James Allen and Mrs. Sara Wilson of this city gathered at the Patton home, Thursday, and surprised Mr. Patton in honor of his birthday.

It was a delightful little family party, the guests serving the dinner which included a birthday cake with the other delicious viands.

Mrs. Harry Rodecker, president of the young Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of Grace Methodist church presided at the meeting, Thursday afternoon in the church parlors.

A report of the February supper was given, and it was decided to make this supper an annual affair. Miss Helen Ginn conducted the lesson-study in comprehensive manner.

Susie Tracey gave a taking recitation and a quartet composed of Georgia Prue Chapman, Dorothy Sparks, Elizabeth Alexander and Frances Griffin sang a pretty number.

Mrs. Ellis Bishop Mrs. Martin L. Morris, Misses Helen Glascock, Tway, Mary Weaver were hostesses and served tempting refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Hoppes and grand daughter Miss Myrtle Steele had as their guests recently Mr. and Mrs. Hoppes, daughter Mrs. Bertha Steele and children Ines, Estle and Roy, Mr. and Mrs. Amer Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. James Lee, Misses Sallie Brown, Margaret and Mildred Weller.

The present decennial census of the United States goes into the problem of marriage and divorce quite exhaustively and at the threshold of the investigation it is being discovered that woman's independence is not only a source of domestic infidelity, but that the birth rate in America may show a decided decline in the next ten years.

One of the interesting sidelights, as revealed by the present census enumeration is in fact that women very nearly equal men, from the standpoint of numerical strength in the several departments of Government. The census enumerators are asking these women whether they are married or single, whether they reside in private homes or in apartments, rooms or hotels. They cannot go beyond these inquiries but numerous census takers report that with a great majority of female employees of the Government who are single marriage is a distasteful subject.

It is being revealed through the census that self-supporting single women are quite content with their lot in life and on this assumption the prognostication of a decline in the birth rate is made. At any rate, said one census enumerator today it will be found that there are less marriages per capita among female employees of the Government in 1920 than there were in 1910.

"Living costs have advanced tremendously in the past decade," said the enumerator, but so have wages and salaries, and whereas vocations for females were limited ten years ago they are virtually unrestricted now.

The invasion of the professions and crafts proves this and we are finding it to be true in every office building, shop, store and factory that we enter. "A large number of municipalities and many departments of State government will not employ married women. This rule has the effect of limiting marriages more than the public believes. The average American woman nowadays values her independence and a bank account more than she does marriage.

"There is a marked tendency toward conservatism," said the enumerator, "in spite of reckless expenditures. The women will be proven to be the best savers and the female bank account in 1920 will show an increase of at least 75 per cent. over 1910.

"I don't know what the outcome of the present economic revolution, if such it may be called, will be; but there is an economic revolution of vast proportions going on. The world is demanding the best that is in both its men and its women.

"The present census will be amazing, in my opinion, from the standpoint of the 'woman question,' if such it can be termed; because women are now invading every field of effort and are making great headway into the sciences. From my investigation up to the present time I conclude that the decennial period from 1920 to 1930 will see women as bank presidents, railroad executives and directors of great industries employing thousands."

Mr. Joseph H. Hoppes, who has been seriously ill for the past two weeks is improving. Miss Myrtle Steele has been with her grandmother during Mr. Hoppes' illness.

ARREST DAYTON MAN ON CHARGE OF AUTO THEFT

Harry Meenach, said to be an auto mobile dealer of Dayton was taken in to custody Thursday night upon a warrant issued as result of an affidavit filed by W. P. Schrock before Mayor Dahl charging Meenach with the theft of affiant's Essex automobile in this city Wednesday night. Meenach was brought to this city, stoutly denied that he had anything to do with the theft of the machine, and was released on $1,000 bond for his appearance before Mayor Dahl at ten o'clock Wednesday, March 9th. Meenach admits that he was in this city on the day of the theft, but disclaims all knowledge of the theft. Friday notice was received from Hillsboro that the missing machine had been located near that town, and plans were made to bring it to this city without delay.

A great deal of interest centers in the charge against the Dayton man and it is understood a number of witnesses will be introduced by both sides when the hearing comes up.

POLICEMAN WATSON
IN FINE SHAPE AGAIN

Has Gained 22 Pounds And is Well And Strong As Any Man in Town Since Taking Tanlac, He Says.

"Yes sir, I have gained twenty-two pounds in weight by taking Tanlac, and I'm as well and strong as any man in town," said Wester Watson, a well-known policeman living at 63 Harrison Ave., Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio.

"I hadn't been myself in years—just felt bum and no account all the time. My appetite was practically gone and my stomach bothered me so that when ever I ventured to eat a little something I always wished afterwards that I hadn't touched a bite. My blood seemed to be in bad condition, for my feet and legs stayed numb and cold all the time. At night I rolled and tossed so that sleep was next to impossible and I went down considerably in weight and didn't know what it was to ever feed good.

"Well, after I started taking Tanlac

I never saw anybody pick up as fast as I did. I took six bottles and now I am in as good health as any man on the force. I weigh one hundred and seventy-one pounds am as strong as an ox and feel as fine as I ever did. Tanlac is great. It's got the world beat." Tanlac is sold in Washington by C. S. Haver, in Lowell by Mason's Drug Store, in Jeffersonville by J. B. Davis, in Octa by J. W. Murphy and in Milledgeville, E. L. Ford Sons, Lee Orman Selden.—Advt.
